the object of their hatred. Butkovich, who, by his activity in hunting up evidence against members of their faction and beloing the authorities pursue them, has brought their concentrated, deadly wrath down upon himself.

Butkovich nearly always is called as interpreter in cases in which his race, regardless of religious affiliations, is concerned, and this appears to be another cause for their plot to assassinate him. They believe that by removing Butkovich they would fare better in court.

Fearing a repetition of the incipient attempt to assassinate the local leader of the Roman Catholic Austrians, the police guarded Butkavich's place most of the night Thursday night, and friends of the Austrian leader maintained a sentry until 3 or 4 a clock this morning. One Selected to Stay.

Nick Dockwitz, arrested with Joewis by Policemen Kast and Beck Sevis by Policemen Kast and Beck-stead, Wednesday night, for complicity in the plot to assassinate Butkovich, was released Thursday and ordered out-of the city, but whether he left or not is uncertain. Sevis was charged with carrying deadly weapons with intent to do bodily harm in a com-laint issued carrying deadly weapons with intent to do bodily barm in a conrelaint issued by the county afterney and sworn to by Policeman Kast, one of his captors.

Sevis is believed to be the one selected by lot to kill Butkovich and Dockwitz is thought to have been sent along to see that he was not interfered with at the critical moment. Sevis carried a revolver, which was found upon him loosely in the lining of his coat on the left side, from which be could have extracted it in a flash and began execution. After his arrest he is said to have renewed his threat against Butkovich's life to an Austrian bystander. Butkovich declares that Sevis said in his native tongue:

"Well, I missed him this time but I'll not miss him the next time."

One of the chambers in Sevis's revolver was empty and the barrel smelled of freshly burned gunpowder.

attendance. The weather was ideal for the occasion, the mercury only reaching a maximum of 80 decrees in the city, and probably not more than 74 at the resort, and for the first time in almost a week the lake remained calm and peaceful more or less all day.

And when it comes to the programme and general festivities, what those butchers and grocers didn't do was certainly not worth doing. At 3 o'clock in the afternoon a long series of races and contests were pulled off in the bicycle arens. There were races for little boys and little girls, big boys and big girls; in fact, there were races for big girls; in fact, there were races for everybody and of all descriptions. And then to conclude the programme of sports, there was a greasy pig to be caught, and what a time there was to catch it. Almost a dozen persons, including one young lady, becan the cluding one young lady, began the chase, but some way or other that pig managed to slip right through the hands of the whole bunch every time.

Finally, however, some one 'grabbed' his tail and then Mr. Pig had to surrender and submit to be carried away by his numerous foes. The successful one was to have been awarded $10, but as it took so many to win the victory over the frightened little animal, it is understood the prize was divided among them.

Next there came the baby show, and after the judges, Richard Papworth, T. H. Weight, Joseph Fagergren and J. D. Fife, had carefully examined every baby present under one year of age, they declared Arthur Rosenblum, son of Mrs. M. M. Rosenblum, to be the pretriest, and the happy mother was awarded the prize of $10. Alvin Palmer Holt, son of Mrs. R. M. Holt, got the prize of $5 for being the largest baby, and John Edward Sirloin, son of Mrs. George Sirloin, took the prize of $250 for being the fattest. Of course, every one did not agree with the decisions made by the judges, every mether declaring her infant the prettiest, but on the other hand nobody scemed to have any legitimate "kick" coming as to awarding of the prizes.

Of course the barbecue was the feature of the day, and before dark 3000 pounds of beef and 2000 lonves of bread had been disposed of. Everybody was given as many sandwiches as there could on tle Difficulty in Securing Sufficient Capital.

FOUR WELLS SUPPLY THE LOCAL DEMAND

J. E. Busch, secretary of the Virgin River Oil and Development company, returned Thursday morning after a week's inspection of the Virgin fields. Mr. Busch states that the region about Virgin is showing signs of active development work. Four wells are productive and enough oil is being pumped from these to supply the local demand, which consists essentially of that required to operate the oil rigs that are drilling for oil. The output of the district readily can be increased to 175

The Paraffine Oil and Develorment company brought in a well last June, but operations are still delayed because of the non-arrival of a pump. A new derrick is being built by the company, however, and another well will be started within the present month.

Seventeen and a half miles from the Virgin fields, H. H. Clark is drilling a well. His rig is said to be the best in southern Utah. Should Mr. Clark strike oil, those familiar with the district declare that it will, prove the presence of oil through the entire seventeen and a half miles, as the country is absolutely unbroken or faulted. Mr. Clark's well is down 927 feet, but he is now 'fishing' for a tool which was caught in the hole.

Mr. Busch is most enthusiastic concerning the district. He has absolute confidence in the field, and declares that the delay in securing capital to hack the movement is entirely due to the financial stringency. Had the strikes been made a vear before, he feels certain that there would have been no difficulty in long since proving the district. However, work done thus far has not proven fruitless. Of the thirteen holes that have been drilled, eleven show oil, while two others do not, but they are not down to the oil bearing stratum.

Mr. Busch declares that as soon as the field shall have been "roven positively by more wells, that little difficulty will be encountered in securing enough capital to build a pipe line from the fields of Moapa. But one pumeing station would be necessary in the entire distance.

Judge Powers and James E Jennings Before Municipal Laws Committee.

Judge O. W. Powers and James E. Jenthe great convention of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners was taken Wednesday afternoon, when reservation for rooms for numbers of the expected delegates was made at the proposed automobile ordinance.

Judge Powers suggested that the ordinance should govern the rate of speed of

It was tentatively agreed that the speed of automobiles should not exceed eight miles an hour over intersections and not exceed twelve miles an hour on streets within the business district, but this matter will be gone over thoroughly by the committee. In the same connection, it was agreed that gravel wagons should be kept off the paved streets, unless they are so constructed that gravel cannot escape. It was pointed out that gravel escaping from wagons is ruining the streets and also ruining automobile tires.

It was finally decided to have the Automobile club draft an ordinance and present it to the committee, after which all details will be looked into.
